Aksel Karasahin

Aksel Karasahin works as a Trainer at Blanchard Türkiye.

His caring, sincere, and attentive approach plays a crucial role in helping individuals build new skills and maintaining a high level of engagement during their learning journey. With experience in providing training across various industries, he has become well-versed in the challenges faced by numerous sectors, with a particular focus on the IT and defense industry.

Since 2007, Aksel has been delivering trainings on leadership, sales, negotiation, communication, public speaking, and presentation. As a certified global trainer for Apple Inc. since 2012, he delivers trainings on sales, customer experience, store management, communication, and soft skills. As a certified Blanchard trainer, he delivers the Blanchard suite of training solutions, which includes The SLII Experience™, Self Leadership, Coaching Essentials® and Team Leadership.

After starting his career at Net Holding as an assistant manager in marketing in 1989, he worked at Siemens from 1990 to 2005 in various leadership roles in different departments. Eventually, he became the finance director of mobile products. Following the BenQ-Siemens merger, Aksel was appointed as the chief financial officer. When BenQ-Siemens ceased operating globally in 2007, his focus shifted to sharing his experiences as a coach, consultant, and trainer.

Aksel earned a BSc in Management Engineering and an MBA from İstanbul Technical University. He received coactive coaching training from the prestigious Coaches Training Institute and reinforced his knowledge and expertise in 2014 with Dale Carnegie's ICF-ACCTP accredited Business-Oriented Coaching and Mentoring Program.

Aksel is an Associate Certified Coach and a native speaker of Turkish and German. He is fluent in English and French.

He enjoys scuba diving, sailing, biking, hiking, cooking, gardening, and traveling in his spare time.
